YALE WINS FROM PRINCETON

TEAM WORK AND TIMELY BATTING PRIME FACTORS OF THE VICTORY.

NO OPPORTUNITIES TO SCORE MISSED BY THE

SONS OF ELL WHILE THE MEN FROM OLD NASSAU FAIL TO HIT AT THE RIGHT TIME. Once more, at the close of a baseball season that began with no particularly bright prospects and grew less hopeful as it advanced toward Commencement Day, Yale has bobbed un calmly and serencily with a final victory over her old rival. Beginning the Princeton series with a crushing defeat, and continuing it with a victory by a narrow margin, Yale finished it yesterday by taking the deciding game by the impressive score of 8 to 3. For three innings the game was a match in every sense of the word. After that the result

The game was played in the presence of about eight thousand speciators, who journeyed to the Polo Grounds in splite of the adverse attractions two hall games in Brooklyn and any number of bleyele meets. a representative assembly of college men and sir friends, although there was present a goodly number of the mistaken faithful who habitually gather to see Andy Freedman's players strive to get into the last place in the League race by in-stalments. The big grandstand was nearly filled and was gay with the colors of the boys from bassan Hall and Old Ell's sons. Behind the netting that protects the heads of the multitude from contact with foul tips sat a large and vocal throng of enthusiasts from the New-Jersey college. Many f them had come to the city with the team Friday night to "get used to the climate," and, if a judgment may be formed from the quality and quantity of the blasts of melody which proceeded from that particular section of the grandstand. the acclimation was a howling success. Contrary to their usual custom, the Yale men were some what scattered, but there was a Yale assembly of tolerable proportions that had a "heavenly sit-tin" in the northwest corner of the stand, up under the roof. These were the two principal con-cerns engaged in the manufacture of turnuit, and tumult and the shoutings were no die for long at a time at any stage of the proceed-THE STAND HAD AN AZURE TINGE.

here were, however, thousands of people who while not absorbed in shattering the att of H vrlem, were not the less interested and who very swherally displayed their colors. The stand had an axure tinge for the most part, excepting for that part given over to the delegation from Jerse V. Yale partisans made little noise at first, but I vinceton adherents were confidently ve diferous fro u the start. They explained, harmo niously, at 1 vst that they were "the boys from -see!" which nobody was disposed They declared frequently that wouldn't do a thing to the Elis; they filled any auses that might otherwise have been awkward with the "locomotive" "Siss: Boom! Ah!" and they did all the other things that they always do when the wearers of the Princeton stripes are engaged in athletic combat. A tall young man in black the human orchestra with grace and precision and a forest of straw hats and sticks and flags time to the music. The game was a curious combination of good and playing. Yale won because Greenway was steady at critical points, and when Princeton had men on bases his fielders backed him up pluckily and successfully. When the Yale partisans were demanding odds in the betting before the game. they had much to say about Greenway's sore arm Now, it is impossible to say how sore that good right arm was. Yale has always been in terrible shape just before a decisive athletic contest. Her players are forever just able to sit up and take a little nourishment. Her football players are par-ticularly addicted to the pernicious practice of going into a game on crutches, while her sprinters generally come upon the track from an ambulance. But somehow or other they occasionally win-crutches, splints and all. They won with Greenway's glass arm yesterday. The errors tally up stx apiece, and the hits were as evenly divided, but Yale put the hits together in an attractive bouquet, and divided her errors so impartially that no inning might be jealous, while Princeton's boutonwas constructed of maledorous errors, and her hits were placed in solitary confinement the development of the game was more significant than the simple score makes evident. There was to Yale's field play an all-together suspect that was little less than picturesque. When a ball shot off from a Princeton bat there was generally more e man where it fell. The infielders backed each other up in a way that saved more than one run, and at least two of the errors were of the order to salt it down on first. Hillebrand put up a good game in the box. To be sure, he was not always able to keep the hits scattered, but the support he received was not calculated to encourage him. He struck out seven men, finding Eddy a particularly choice victim, and serving him up nine swift ones to fan. On the other hand, he hit two men and gave another his base on balls. Every one of these three afterward work in the field, on the contrary, lacked the ma-chine quality that comes from constant and judicious coaching, for if the average college ball player is well coached, he does not forget his lessons when it comes time to put them in practice.

Bases were left uncovered several times when the baseman was fielding a ball. Wild throws occa-stonally found nobody to recover them promptly.

and Kelly for one, was guilty of bad judgment in taking a ball that he should have left to Burke in sort that must be classed as excusable

De Saulies and Wallace must be credited with the star fielding plays of the day. In the second inning the football player got after an exceedingly awkward bounder from Burke's bat, pulled it down and, with the same motion, tossed it to Wadsworth just in time to make the out. Wallace's contribution came in the eighth inning. when Princeton was making her last rally. Two men were out and two were on bases. Easton drove a long liner to deep right centre. Wallace one hand. That took the heart out of the Tigers. Hazen also made a fine stop and throw off Kelly's bat in the eighth inning. Kelly was certainly safe on the play, but the umpire couldn't see it that way. That fact does not detract from the glory due to Hazen, however. For Princeton Hutchings made a great stop and throw in the seventh inning off De Saulles's bat, but that was about the only good thing he did. His three errors were disastrous, and Burke's were more so.

PRINCETON'S GOOD BEGINNING.

The game opened with Princeton at the bat. Suter cracked out a single, to the great delight of the Princeton enthusiasis, who said one to an errors and four hits gave the game to the Orphans other, "We won't do a thing to Greenway s sore arm!" But two of the next three men struck out and the other was Wear's victim. De Saulles got hit with the ball, stole second, assisted by Kafer's high throw, and scored the first run of the game when Hutchings fumbled Greenway's grounder. Hillebrand evened things up in the second inning on Camp's fumble, a steal, Sullivan's poor throw on Camp's fumble, a steal, Sullivan's poor throw and another fumble by Camp of Burke's grounder. Princeton took the lead in the third inning and set her backers wild with delight by adding two runs to her taily. Butler and Burke scored on a combination, in which a base on balls, a sacrifice hit by Hillebrand and singles by Burke and Watkins were the dynamic factors. This was the height, breadth and depth of Princeton's scoring. In Yale's half of the fourth inning, when Suter missed Wear's hard drive after a good try, the Yalensian anded on third, scoring a moment later when Hillebrand failed to handle Greenway's high bunt. Camp advanced Greenway to second by getting in the way of a pitched ball, and Hutchings allowed the Yale captain to score by getting tangled up with Hazen's sharp grounder.

score was tied, and the grandstand and the bleachers were alive with waving flags and hats and sticks. Everything was blue, however, in the fifth, when, after Wadsworth had struck out, ifth, when, after Wadsworth had struck out, Greenway, Wallace, Camp and Hazen got out their hammers and lit on Hillebrand for a single each, the sum total of which was three runs. Yale, 6: Princeton, 3, and the "boys from New-Jersee" in gloom deep and thek. Twe more runs came to Eli in the sixth, when De Saulles got a base on balls. Burke benevoiently put in two fumbles, and Greenway cracked out his second single. Score—Yale, 8: Princeton, 3. And there it stood. Wallace smothered Princeton's last gasp for breath in the ninth, and the game was over.

Now, there are several remarks pertinent hereto. Apparently, the longer any of Yale's team play the better they play. Again, the man who tries to figure out what college team gets the championship this year may as well hire himself a padded cell in Bloomingdale forthwith. Princeton and Brown breaf, even; Brown gets two out of three from Yale; Brown breaks even with Harvard, and Yale gets the Princeton series. Yale and Harvard have yet to settle their respective merits. If it were not for Brown's victory over Yale, Yale's claim would be good, providing she downs Harvard, which seems probable at this time, inasmuch, as already said, as the longer Yale plays the stronger she grows. As things are, however, everybody is en-By winning this game the New-Rochelle team wins its series with the Yonkers team. The second game was between the Hollywood Inn team and that of the Brooklyn Heights, and resulted in an easy victory for the home team.

POWELL WINS TWO STATE CHAMPION-SHIPS AND FIGURES IN A THIRD.

BEDELL RIDES AWAY WITH THE METROPOLITAN TEN-MILE CHAMPIONSHIP-SCHOFIELD'S ABSENCE FROM THE CONTEST

A SURPRISE.

Perkeley Oval was the scene yesterday of some spirited bicycle racing of the best sort. The management tried the experiment of restricting the contests to amateurs only, and while the sport was excellent throughout, the attendance was not as great as the attractions warranted. The members of the Board of Officers of the New-York State Division of the League of American Wheelmen, who had held their semi-annual meeting at the clubhouse in the morning, were present at the races, and they were loud in their praises of the beautiful surroundings. It is an ideal fast track, and has picturesque attributes, but it has not yet caught the people's attention.

It proved to be a field day for that superb college rider, I. A. Powell, who now rides under the colors of the New-York Athletic Club, and the members of the Mercury Foot organization may and one-mile State championships, and then, with of Officers of the division yesterday was not C. Some surprise was manifested at the fallure of Schofield to enter in the champion-himself, nor did he deign to give any reason ships. Schofield has been on the State circuit, where he did excellent work. Powell was not on the circuit, and there had been much speculation as to the outcome of the struggle when these two men came together. Schofield, however, evaded the issue; at least, that is the way the friends of Powell

Kramer, of Newark, rode in capital form in the one-mile handicap, and finished with something to spare after a lively brush in the home stretch with Hausman, the New-Haven rider.

AN EASY THING FOR BEDELL.

The race for the ten-mile metropolitan chamip resulted in the easiest sort of a victory for H. Y. Bedell, of the Pierce Wheelmen. The result was never in doubt after the first mile had been idden. Bedell showed excellent judgment in following pace. While his pacing was uniform and even, it was not fast enough. A paced race between Redell and Schofield would furnish a contest worth seeing. A COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE HIS AF-FAIRS.

LIVELY MEETING OF THE STATE DIVISION OF THE L A. W .- CHIEF CONSUL JENKINS AND PRESIDENT POTTER HAVE A TILT.

One of the liveliest meetings in the history of the New-York State Division of the League of American Wheelmen was held at the clubhouse at Berkeley Oval yesterday morning. No caucus was held this year, and the delegates from different parts of the State went into the meeting prepared to say just what they thought. As a result some stinging remarks were heard. The conduct of A. D. Walt, the chairman of the Racing Board of the State, was discussed, and it was decided that a committee of five be appointed to investigate the charges which have been made against him. It will be remembered that Mr. Walt failed to protect the State meet, which was to have been held at the Oval yesterday, by granting other sanctions, and as a result the division not only lost money, but one of the most popular clubs in the League resigned its

Mr. Wait treated the Harlem Wheelmen with well be proud of him. He captured the half-mile little courtesy, and his treatment of the Board for not appearing. After discussing the subject at length it was decided to appoint a special committee to investigate Mr. Wait's affairs. This committee is composed of Dr. L. C. Leroy. chairman; H. B. Fullerton, F. La Manna, C. F. Cossum and Louis Rosenfeld. The committee e of has full power, and it will get to work immemen informing them that there would be a conflict on that date. The copy of the letter was not skened, and according to the members of the Harlem Wheelmen no such communication was received by that club from Mr. Wait.

When Chief Consul Jenkins, of Buffalo, made his report, he intimated that the old administration had not done certain things which it ought to have done. President Potter, who was present, winced under the insinuations, and his friends knew that he would retort in his own way, and he did. While he said he did not mean to cast any reflections on the members of the present State administration, he, in reality, and the race. ever had any chance. FRENCHMAN FALLS TO LINTON LOSES HEART IN THE THIRTY-MILE RACE

AND LETS THE ENGLISH RIDER WIN. HIS CHANCES NOT IMPROVED BY A MISHAP TO "HIS "QUAD" PACING MACHINE-"MAJOR"

TAYLOR A VICTOR, TOO, AT In a hard-fought contest at the Manhattan Beach

track yesterday, Thomas Linton, the English rider, defeated Edouard Taylore, of France, in a thirtymile bicycle race which was witnessed by about five thousand people.

The Manhattan Beach track is famous for its ocean breezes, and it upheld its reputation in that respect yesternay. In fact, a stiff breeze blew when the races started, and continued to blow until the finish of the sport. There were a number of other good races on the programme, including one between the indomitable colored rider, "Major" Taylor, of Boston, and Jaap Eden, of Holland. Eden's defeat was much to the edification of the colored rider's friends, and these seemed to include about everybody at the track. The "Major" was cheered to the echo, both before and after the race, and he felt as proud as a peacock in consequence. The "Major" used to hall from Gowanus, and was formerly the "rubber-down" of the South Brooklyn Wheelmen.

The race between the stars, Taylore and Linton, was a hot one from the start, and it proved interesting until near the finish, when both Taylore and his pacemakers appeared to lose heart. In the send-off the Frenchman caught his pace first and went into the lead, with Linton close behind him. The men rode this way for three miles, making the first mile in 2:00 1-5. Then Linton forged ahead and first mile in 2:00 1-5. Then Linton forged ahead and kept the lead for nearly a mile, when he lost his pace and fell back. Taylore gained about a third of a lap, and retained this advantage until the sixth mile.

A "QUAD" BADLY MIXED.

In the first lap of this mile, as Taylore was coming up the stretch behind his "quad," an exciting accident happened. The "quad" all at once went down and became a confused mass of wheels, legs and arms waving in the air. Taylore at the time was riding close behind the big machine, and for a moment the crowd held its breath, believing that ne, too, must get mixed in the smashup. In some way, however, he steered his wheel through the mass of fallen pacemakers, and, quickly picking up another "quad," went on as if nothing had happened. But it took time, and in the meanwhile Linton had made good use of his opportunity and not only had made up the lead which Taylore had gained on him, but had forged ahead until there was the best part of half a lap between him and his opponent. he, too, must get mixed in the smashup. In some was the best part of half a lap between him and his opponent.

Taylore was not daunted by his mishap, and he went after Linton at a ratifling gait, and, catching up with him, the men rode together until the fifteenth mile. Linton then spurted, and, keeping up a hot pace, he gradually increased his lead until the twenty-second mile was reached. At that time he had gained a lap on Taylore, and, try as he would. Taylore could not get away from him.

In the twenty-ninth mile Linton passed the French rider, and the latter then began to lose courage. He realized, as did his pacemakers, that the race was lost and he did not try to better his position. Linton gained another half-lap in the thirtleth mile, and he won the race by one and a half laps. The race itself was made in good time, considering Taylore's mishap, 55:22 being recorded. This was only 0:13 4-5 behind the world's record, made by McDuffee at Fossion in Friday.

Two world's records were broken and one was equalled. Rush, defeating Wefers, Maybury and Lang in the 10eyard flat race, equalled the record of 94-5 seconds. The feature of the afternaon was the victory of Lang over Rush and Maybury in the 22eyard event. He won easily, his line being next to the pole around the sharp turn. Peabody spilled in the bicycle race, and it was then easy for the visitors. Mike, Murphy's men hel dithe Chicagoans safe in all the middle-distance runs and mile walk. No opponents equal to Burke, Cregaa and Fetterman were shown, or the records might have been lower. Only firsts counted. The National championship contests will take place next Thursday at the same grounds.
